

[LETTER OF INSTRUCTIONS NO. 298, July 19, 1975]

TO : The Secretary of Agriculture
 The Secretary of Defense
 The Governor, Central Bank of the Philippines
 The Chairman, Development Bank of the Philippines
 The President, Land Bank
 The Director of Animal Industry
 The Commissioner of Budget
 The Secretary of Local Government

WHEREAS, the current foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) affecting livestock in thirteen (13) provinces of Luzon has reached epidemic proportions;

WHEREAS, this disease, while not fatal to livestock incapacitates affected animals for at least six (6) months;

WHEREAS, to date, the number of FMD cases reported amounts to 14,000 carabaos, 426 cattle and 18,000 swine;

WHEREAS, the FMD epidemic has serious implications on rice production since it affects carabaos which are the major means for land preparation;

WHEREAS, the majority of provinces affected by FMD are major rice-producing areas, and farmers in these provinces will not be able to plant rice unless they have a substitute means for tilling their land;

WHEREAS, there is an urgent need for a massive vaccination and quarantine program to control FMD and at the same time ensure the continued success of the Masagana 99 program;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, FERDINAND E. MARCOS, President of the Republic of the Philippines, do hereby order the following:

1. The Secretary of Agriculture, through the Bureau of Animal Industry, shall undertake an all-out drive to control and eradicate the foot-and-mouth disease through vaccination of livestock, strict quarantine measures and other necessary steps.
2. For the duration of the present emergency, the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby granted the authority to make purchases of vaccines amounting to P100,000 and above without the prior approval of the Cabinet Coordinating Committee on Procurement as an exception to Executive Order No. 323, series of 1971. The required amount of vaccines shall be imported directly from manufacturers without middlemen, whenever possible.
3. The Commissioner of the Budget shall immediately release, P18,200,000 from the calamity fund to cover the cost of vaccines.
