The said law stipulates that the validity of the residence visa (Iqama) of foreign workers/residents in Kuwait will be limited to the validity of their passports such as:

4. Valid residence visa stamped on expired passport shall be automatically expired causing the visa holders to overstay.

The same law also stipulates that the following penalties will be imposed on those who will violate the law:

Filipino expatriates in Kuwait are hereby advised to check and monitor the validity of their passports for their continued legal residence and employment in Kuwait and to avoid the above-cited penalties. If the validity of their passport is less than a year, they are advised to file their application for the renewal of their passport at the Philippine Embassy immediately. Simultaneously, they may also file applications for the extension of the validity of their passports to ensure that they are in possession of valid passport while waiting for the release of their new passports which takes about sixty (60) days from the date the passport application was filed.

Further, the Embassy may extend the validity of the passports only until 25 November 2015, the deadline set by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) for all countries to phase out all non-machine readable passports from
