On May 17, 1996, Davao City Prosecutor Oscar S. Aquino filed with the Regional Trial Court, Davao City, an Information charging Samson Bragas y Blanco with rape, committed as follows:

"The undersigned, at the instance of the offended party Lira Maureen Rosario, 13 years old, whose Affidavit is hereto attached and form part of this Information accuses SAMSON BRAGAS Y BLANCO of the crime of RAPE under Art. 335 of the Revised Penal Code, in relation to Republic Act No. 7659, committed as follows:

"That on or about April 30, 1995, in the City of Davao, Philippines and within the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court, the above-mentioned accused, did then and there wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously by means of force, violence and intimidation lie and have carnal knowledge of Lira Maureen Rosario against her will.

"Contrary to law.

"Davao City, Philippines, May 14, 1996.

"(Sgd.)Oscar S. Aquino
Prosecutor I"[3]

Upon arraignment on June 7, 1996, the accused entered a plea of not guilty to the information.[4] Hence, trial was had.

Complainant Lira Maureen Rosario was born on February 9, 1983, the child of Luis F. Rosario and Maxima Roble Rosario.[5] Sometime in 1987, when she was four (4) years old, her parents separated. In 1989, her mother lived as common-law wife with accused-appellant Samson Bragas y Blanco.[6]

On April 30, 1995, complainant's mother left for Manila to follow-up the support due from Lira's father. Complainant, who was then twelve (12) years old, was left at home with her younger brother and accused-appellant, at Mahayag, Buhangin, Davao City. Around 3:00 in the afternoon, while Lira's younger brother was playing outside the house, accused-appellant Samson Bragas entered the room of the complainant and asked her to remove his dandruff from his scalp. Complainant complied by using a comb in removing the dandruff. After removing his dandruff, she wanted to get out of the room but accused prevented her by holding her chin tightly and forcing her to lie down on the floor. After she lay down, accused removed his pants as well as his brief and raised Lira's skirt and removed her panty. Then accused-appellant placed himself on top of her and inserted his penis into her vagina. After appellant consummated the sexual act, he warned complainant not to tell her mother about what happened, otherwise he would create trouble.[7]

On March 25, 1996, at around 9:00 in the evening, complainant Lira knocked at the door of the house of her neighbor, Mrs. Imelda Pania. Lira told her that accused-appellant raped her on April 30, 1995, and that almost every night thereafter, accused-appellant required her to wear only a t-shirt and panty because he would touch her private parts.[8] Immediately, Mrs. Pania asked one of her neighbors to fetch Lira's mother. Maxima Rosario went to Mrs. Pania's house where Lira told Maxima what appellant had been doing to her. Maxima requested Mrs. Pania to hide Lira for that night. The following morning, Maxima with policemen fetched Lira. Maxima reported the matter to the Talomo Police Station, Davao City, and six (6) policemen were dispatched to assist Maxima and Lira in confronting appellant who could not be located at that time.

On March 26, 1996, Dr. Danilo Ledesma, Medico Legal-Officer of the City Health Office of Davao City subjected complainant to a medical examination. His medical report[9] showed that private complainant sustained abrasion which measured 0.4

cm. long, and two old healed deep lacerations in the hymen estimated at 4:00 and 8:00 o'clock positions.^[10]

In disowning liability for the offense charged, accused-appellant Samson Bragas denied that he had sexual intercourse with complainant. He declared that on April 30, 1995, at 3:00 in the afternoon, he was at Dapecol, Davao del Norte, doing a carving job. He finished carving the round table of a certain Dodo for one (1) week. Then, on May 7, 1995, he went back to Dapecol. On March 26, 1996, he was arrested and brought to Talamo Police Station.^[11]

After trial on the merits, on January 27, 1997, the trial court rendered decision finding accused Samson Bragas y Blanco guilty beyond reasonable doubt of the crime charged and sentencing him to the extreme penalty of death and to indemnify complainant the amount of P30,000.00 as moral damages.^[12]

Hence, the case is now before us for automatic review.

In his brief, accused-appellant assigned two errors imputed to the trial court, which, however, boil down to the sole issue of credibility of witnesses, as basis for conviction.

The accused argues that "the trial court did not scrutinize with great caution the testimony of the private complainant. It overlooked the fact that the charge of rape against accused-appellant was concocted by complainant's mother in order to get rid of him so that she could marry her American boyfriend. Why did it take private complainant ten (10) months to report the rape allegedly perpetrated by the accused-appellant against her? Delay in the prosecution of case without reasonable explanation affects the credibility of the alleged rape victim. The long delay of complainant in reporting the incident created a doubt that she was indeed raped by the accused. On this score alone, the trial court should have acquitted accused-appellant."^[13]

We find the appeal devoid of merit.

It is true that appellant's conviction hinges on the credibility of the victim and her testimony. We agree with the trial court, which had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses, that the victim's account was credible. We find no reason to reverse its holdings, for "it is doctrinally settled that the assessment of the credibility of witnesses and their testimony is a matter best undertaken by the trial court because of its unique opportunity to observe the witnesses firsthand and to note their demeanor, conduct, and attitude under grilling examination. A trial court's findings on the credibility of witnesses carry great weight and respect and will be sustained by the appellate courts unless the trial court overlooked, misunderstood, or misapplied some facts or circumstances of weight and substance which will alter the assailed decision or affect the result of the case."^[14]

In view of the intrinsic nature of the crime of rape, oftentimes the only evidence that can be offered to prove the guilt of the perpetrator is the testimony of the offended woman herself. Thus, her testimony, standing alone can be the basis of conviction if such testimony meets the test of credibility.^[15]
