EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations specify the conditions under which students will be admitted to courses of teacher training commencing with the session 1967-68. The only modification of substance is that, as compared with the previous Regulations, they give the authorities of the colleges of education a greater measure of responsibility for the admission of students to their own colleges.

The requirements as to educational qualifications have been simplified.
