

TIME FOR EQUALITY AT WORK

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL

TIME FOR EQUALITY AT WORK

*Global Report
under the Follow-up to the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work*

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE
91st Session 2003

Report I (B)

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR OFFICE
GENEVA

ISBN 92-2-112871-7
ISSN 0074-6681

First published 2003

The designations employed in ILO publications, which are in conformity with United Nations practice, and the presentation of material therein do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the International Labour Office concerning the legal status of any country, area or territory or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers.

Reference to names of firms and commercial products and processes does not imply their endorsement by the International Labour Office, and any failure to mention a particular firm, commercial product or process is not a sign of disapproval.

ILO publications can be obtained through major booksellers or ILO local offices in many countries, or direct from ILO Publications, International Labour Office, CH-1211 Geneva 22, Switzerland. Catalogues or lists of new publications are available free of charge from the above address.

Contents

Executive summary	ix
Introduction	1
Part I. From principle to reality	5
1. Growing international recognition of the need to eliminate discrimination in the world of work	7
The ILO: A key player in building international consensus.....	7
Social mobilization and organization: The drive behind international recognition and commitment	12
2. Discrimination: What should be eliminated and why?	15
What is discrimination?	15
Discrimination in employment and occupation: What work situations are covered?.....	18
Types of discrimination	19
What does not constitute discrimination	21
Why does discrimination persist?	23
The role of labour market institutions and processes	23
Denying or downplaying discrimination.....	24
Why it is important to eliminate discrimination at work.....	25
The link between discrimination and poverty	27
3. The changing face of discrimination at work	29
Racial discrimination: Continuity and change	29
Religious discrimination: The need for better scrutiny and understanding	31
The challenge of eliminating discrimination against people living with HIV/AIDS.....	32

Discrimination on the grounds of disability	34
Age as a determinant of discrimination in the labour market	35
Multiple discrimination: The accumulation of deprivation	36
Part II. Selected trends and policy issues	39
1. Gender inequalities in the labour market as a proxy for sex-based discrimination at work	41
Discrimination at entry to the labour market	41
Discrimination in occupation.	43
Determinants of occupational segregation	44
Trends in occupational segregation	45
Discrimination in remuneration.	47
Where does the problem lie and why is it important to tackle it?	47
Determinants of discrimination in remuneration	49
Trends in discrimination in remuneration	51
Disparities in earnings based on race	54
The minimum wage	56
2. Policy issues and interventions	58
Legislation: An indispensable first step.	58
Shifts in legal approaches to combat discrimination and promote equality	60
Public procurement policies: A new instrument to promote equality?	61
Enforcement, monitoring and promotion are crucial for sustained change	61
Closing the gap: Affirmative action	63
Has affirmative action brought about the intended results?	66
The importance of gathering the right data	68
Technical and financial considerations	68
Political and ideological orientations.	69
Concerns about privacy	69
Developing a measuring tool	69
Educational and vocational training help inclusion	70
The role of employment services	72
Balancing work and family	73
Why is it important to get the work/family balance right?	74
Fiscal measures.	75
Shortening work schedules	75
Care services for children and other dependent family members	75

Maternity protection and parental leave.	76
Family-friendly arrangements promoted by enterprises	76
Part III. The ILO and the social partners in action	79
1. The ILO: A long history of combating discrimination at work	81
ILO action is rooted in the international labour standards	81
The ILO and racial discrimination: Paving the way for institutional change	82
The ILO in post-apartheid South Africa and Namibia: Building an affirmative action policy	82
Brazil: Campaigning for equality in respect of diversity	83
From a focus on women workers to gender mainstreaming	83
Reducing the rights deficit by promoting women workers' rights	84
More and better jobs for women	84
An enabling environment for women entrepreneurs	85
Empowering women through micro-finance programmes	86
Breaking through the glass ceiling	86
Sexual harassment	86
Tackling gender inequalities in remuneration	87
The trafficking of human beings	88
Decent work for "invisible" workers: Homeworkers	88
Gender mainstreaming and the gender audit	89
Linking poverty and social exclusion to discrimination at work	90
Mainstreaming gender in anti-poverty policies and programmes	91
Participation in the Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper process: A window of opportunity to promote equality	92
Public investment programmes: Promoting inclusive approaches and respect of equality standards	92
Challenging discriminatory practices through crisis response	93
Targeted interventions: A focus on disadvantaged and vulnerable groups	94
Promoting indigenous and tribal peoples' rights and livelihoods	94

Addressing discrimination based on disability and HIV/AIDS status through codes of practice	95
Decent treatment of migrant workers	97
2. Employers' and workers' organizations: Key partners in achieving equality	99
Voice and representation: Enabling conditions	99
Trade union efforts to reach out to workers without representation	100
Employers' associations: Raising the representation of discriminated-against groups	101
Voice and representation is key to eliminating poverty and social exclusion	103
Collective bargaining: A conduit to equality?	104
Gender equality bargaining: What have we learnt?	105
Equality bargaining beyond gender	107
Enterprises mobilizing for equality	107
The challenge of small and medium-sized enterprises	109
Beyond national initiatives and national actors	110
Part IV. Towards an action plan to eliminate discrimination at work	113
1. The way forward	115
Defining the needs for further action by the ILO	115
Three strategies to set the wheels in motion	116
Knowledge	116
Advocacy	117
Services	117
2. Conclusion	119
Annexes
1. ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up	123

预览已结束，完整报告链接和二维码如下：

https://www.yunbaogao.cn/report/index/report?reportId=5_22725

