DISPUTE SETTLEMENT

GENERAL TOPICS

1.3 Permanent Court of Arbitration

UNITED NATIONS
New York and Geneva, 2003

NOTE

The Course on Dispute Settlement in International Trade, Investment and Intellectual Property consists of forty modules.

This module has been prepared by Mr. H.M. Holtzmann and Ms. B.E. Shifman at the request of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD). The views and opinions expressed in this module are those of the authors and not necessarily those of the United Nations, WTO, WIPO, ICSID, UNCITRAL, the Advisory Center on WTO Law or the PCA. The authors wish to express their gratitude to the editorial staff of the Manual on International Courts and Tribunals, published in 1999 by the Project on International Courts and Tribunals (PICT) for permission to rely on the Manual's section on the PCA in preparing this module.

The designations employed and the presentation of the material do not imply an expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the United Nations concerning the legal status of any country, territory, city or areas or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitations of its frontiers or boundaries. In quotations from the official documents and the jurisprudence of international organizations and tribunals countries are designated as reported.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

This module gives an overview of the functioning of the over 100-year-old Permanent Court of Arbitration (“PCA”) in providing a wide range of dispute settlement mechanisms to various entities and persons, including States, international organizations and private parties.

OBJECTIVES

After studying this module, the reader should be able to:

- Recognize the PCA's unique role in international dispute resolution;
- Identify the different types of dispute resolution mechanisms available under PCA auspices and assess their appropriateness or availability with respect to specific types of disputes; and
- Provide effectively for recourse to PCA dispute resolution, inter alia, by drafting dispute resolution clauses for existing as well as future disputes.
