

SELECTED
MULTILATERAL TREATIES IN THE FIELD OF THE ENVIRONMENT
in 2 volumes

These conventions contain the essential substance of international environmental law.

They are fundamental works of reference for all who are interested in the protection of the world around us – laymen as much as professionals.

Volume I – contains 78 conventions concluded in the period 1933 – 1979 (originally published by UNEP in 1983; now available for sale with Vol. II)

Volume II – contains 50 conventions concluded in the period 1979 – 1989, (together with some earlier conventions supplementing Vol. I)

Each volume is divided into two parts.

Part I – Basic Data – provides a summary of the relevant provisions of each convention, including the full official title, data and place of adoption, date of signature and entry into force, and the States Parties.

Part II reproduces the full texts of the conventions and their related protocols.

Each volume contains an index.

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND LAW

This international journal is published for the exchange of information and experience on all policy, legal and administrative matters relevant to the natural environment in its widest sense – air, water and soil pollution as well as waste management; the conservation of flora and fauna; protected areas and land-use control; and development and conservation of the world's non-renewable resources. In short, all aspects included in the concept of sustainable development.

Environmental Policy and Law is divided into sections for easy accessibility. These sections cover the activities of the United Nations and its specialized agencies, other international developments, regional activities within the framework of CMEA, CARICOM, OAU, ASEAN, etc., and developments at the national level from all over the world.

An important and distinctive feature is the publication of selected documents appearing with the minimum of delay, which are not easily accessible, such as the resolutions from non-public meetings of parliamentarians, guidelines or draft conventions not yet published or newly concluded agreements.

Environmental Policy and Law fills a gap left by other publications. Subscribers are politicians, government officials at the highest level of decision-making, academics, scientists, practising lawyers, firms, and private persons wishing to keep up to date on contemporary policies and practices.
