This book was written by Stephen Stec for and on behalf of the World Resources Institute (WRI) and UNEP, assisted by Jesse Worker, under the guidance of Alexander Juras of UNEP and Lalanath de Silva of WRI.

The project to draft an implementation guide to the Bali Guidelines on Rio Principle 10 was developed by UNEP's Major Groups and Stakeholders Branch in cooperation with UNITAR and WRI. The project is one component of a multi-year umbrella project involving UNEP, UNITAR and UNDP as partners to promote the implementation of the Bali Guidelines. The Guide was drafted over the course of two years with significant input gathered from three regional workshops in Latin America, the Caribbean, and Middle East/North Africa. One of the key foundational references was the "Commentary" to the Guidelines drafted by Sylvia Bankobeza of UNEP. The Guide was also presented publicly on the UNEP website in draft form on two occasions, in late 2014 and early 2015, during which comments were received from CEDHA, IPEN, ICCA, Australia and the United States. An explanatory note on the comments and how they were taken into account is available from UNEP upon request.

To support the author in the drafting of the Guide, UNEP established an Advisory Group (AG) consisting of a geographically diverse group of experts with vast experience in matters related to Rio Principle 10. While nominally independent, the AG included academics, NGO representatives, international organization staff, and government officials. The AG worked primarily through remote correspondence, but in December 2014, UNEP convened a special meeting of members of the AG in Washington DC to thoroughly review an advanced draft of the Guide. Throughout the drafting of the Guide, the AG's advice, consideration and substantive contributions proved invaluable.

The members of the AG were: Danielle Andrade (Jamaica Environment Trust), David Banisar (Article 19), Sylvia Bankobeza (UNEP), Lalanath De Silva (WRI), Ritwick Dutta (LIFE, India), Jonas Ebbesson (Stockholm University), Timothy Epp (US EPA), Sandor Fulop (Environmental Management and Law Association, Hungary), Achim Halpaap (UNITAR), Amrei Horstbrink (UNITAR), John Knox (UN Special Rapporteur), Irina Krasnova (Russian Academy of Justice), Daniel Magraw (Johns Hopkins University), Fiona Marshall (UNECE), Reinford Mwangonde (CJF, Malawi), Somrudee Nicro (Thailand), Benson Ochieng, (Institute for Law and Environmental Governance, Kenya), Marc Pallemerts (Amsterdam University), Brian Preston (Land and Environment Court of New South Wales), Barbara Ruis (UNEP), Andrea Sanhueza (Chile), Roberta Solis Ribeiro (Brazil), Jorge Daniel Taillant (CEDHA, Argentina), Valeria Torres (UN ECLAC), Magdolna Toth Nagy (Hungary) and Jesse Worker (WRI). Brian Preston deserves special acknowledgment for his outstanding contribution to the section on access to justice. Additional input was provided by the following persons: Andrei Andrusyevych (Ukraine), Jiri Dusik (Integra Consulting Ltd.), Carole Excell (WRI), Tsvetelina Filipova (REC), Jerzy Jendroska (Opole University), Shereen Kandil (US EPA), Luc Lavrysen (EU Judges for the Environment), Pia Macarena Slanzi (Article 19), Miriam Markus-Johansson (Sweden), Jeremy Wates (European Environment Bureau) and Haiya Zhang (China). While the subject did not make it into the final version of the Guide, the author is grateful to Professors Timo Koivurova, Willemien DuPlessis and Anne Powers for an interesting exchange on non-regression. The author is also immensely grateful to the teams at UNEP, UNITAR and WRI, led by Alexander Juras, Achim Halpaap and Lalanath de Silva, and would especially like to express appreciation to Fatou Ndoye of UNEP and Jesse Worker of WRI for their practical, moral and substantive support. All of the above should share in the credit for what this Guide achieves; any errors, naturally, are those of the author alone.

This Guide is dedicated to the memory of the late Professor Marc Pallemerts of the University of Amsterdam, distinguished member of the Advisory Group, who passed away during the drafting of the Guide.
