

CASE STUDY: Viet Nam

AID FOR TRADE EXPERT DIALOGUE
BANGKOK, 18th Nov. 2013

Background

- Viet Nam is considered as a good example of effective use of Official Development Assistance for development in general and in supporting trade in particular.
- Official assessment (by donors and the Vietnamese government itself) is very positive for Viet Nam in the last 20 years:
 - High economic growth and impressive poverty reduction
 - Significant expansion of trade with limited adverse effects on the economy.
 - Viet Nam has impressive record in achieving Millennium Development Goal
- Donors are mostly pleased with what Viet Nam have been doing both in terms of economic transformation as well as the effectiveness of ODA use. Some consider “Vietnam as an ideal “laboratory” for the aid-for-trade agenda” (OECD, 2011)
