UNFPA AND JAPAN COMMIT TO “LEAVING NO ONE BEHIND” IN COVID-19 RESPONSE

The Government of Japan supports the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) for its work in Indonesia to protect and maintain the dignity of women and vulnerable groups during COVID-19 pandemic through funding of US$ 2,863,636.

The prolonged pandemic, combined with natural disasters in different parts of Indonesia, have taken a heavy toll on women and vulnerable populations who are facing increased risk of gender-based violence (GBV) and greater barriers to their access to sexual and reproductive health (SRH) and other essential services.

Through a project entitled Leave No One Behind (LNOB), the partnership between UNFPA and Japan will ensure continued and equal access to life-saving SRH services and outreach to vulnerable populations that are bearing the brunt of the pandemic, which include pregnant women, GBV survivors, people living with HIV, older persons, and persons with disabilities.

UNFPA NEWS

ENSURING THE WELLNESS AND SAFETY OF FEMALE SEX WORKERS DURING THE PANDEMIC

16 JUNE 2021

As the effects of COVID-19 pandemic emerge over time, it has become clear that the pandemic exposes existing inequalities. It disproportionately affects people who are already marginalized and living in financially precarious situations, often outside social protection mechanisms.

During these difficult times, female sex workers are facing particular hardships and concerns. Safeguarding their human rights and ensuring their access to sexual and reproductive health services is one of the priorities in COVID-19 response.

INDONESIAN RELIGIOUS LEADERS, HEALTH WORKERS ADVOCATE FEMALE GENITAL MUTILATION'S END

"I was about seven years old when my mother organized a female genital mutilation ritual for me. The paradji [traditional birth attendant] used a piece of sharpened bamboo stick. I was screaming in severe pain, and I saw blood coming out," recalled Hj. Helwana, a religious leader from the Indonesian Mosque Council (DMI). "I was and still am very traumatized."

Globally, some 200 million girls and women alive today have undergone some form of female genital mutilation. Based on UNFPA estimates, 4.1 million girls and women are at risk of female genital mutilation in 2021, rising to 4.6 million by 2030. According to the 2013 National Health Survey (the most recent year figures are available), one in two girls aged 11 years old or younger in Indonesia were subjected to it.

2021 NATIONAL FAMILY DAY: PREVENTING MATERNAL MORTALITY AND STUNTING WITH FAMILY PLANNING

"Family planning is the first pillar of safe motherhood that plays a critical role in decreasing the risk of maternal death, and shaping a quality generation," Minister of Health of the Republic of Indonesia Budi Gunadi Sadikin affirms during a webinar entitled "Family Planning to Prevent Maternal Mortality and Stunting" held in commemoration of the National Family Day on June 25th.

Two women in Indonesia die every hour due to complications during pregnancy, childbirth, and post-delivery, according to the Intercensal Population Survey (Supas) 2015. In 2020 alone, 4,614 maternal deaths were recorded, 50 percent of which took place in West Java, East Java, Central Java, Banten, North Sumatra, and Aceh (an increase from 4,196 in 2019).
