January to August 2021

A direct beneficiary can receive more than one type of assistance from UNHCR, so it is possible that the total number of beneficiaries is smaller.

Operational Context

As of 28 August, Colombia's migration authorities report 1,222,009 pre-registrations into the Single Registry for Venezuelan Migrants (RUMV in Spanish) out of which 1,125,952 (92%) with a finalized characterization exercise. A total of 1,003,682 Venezuelans (82% of those who pre-registered) are already scheduled for in-person biometric registration begun on 1 September.

On August 4, the Integral Migration Policy Law was signed by Colombian President Duque during a ceremony organized in the department of Leticia (Amazonas) with the participation of the UNHCR Representative. UNHCR had successfully advocated for the inclusion of the definition of a refugee, the approval of the salvoconducto as an accepted identification document during the refugee status determination process and a series of measures for combating statelessness. The Migration Law also includes specific policies aimed at the socio-economic reintegration of the Colombian returnees.

On 19 of August, the Government of Colombia issued Resolution 8617/ 2021 through which the validity of "Primero la Niñez" is extended for two more years. UNHCR has been supporting the design and the implementation of this initiative which prevents statelessness and grants Colombian nationality to children born in Colombia to Venezuelan parents since 2019. As of 12 August, 63,183 children have benefited from this measure.

Within the framework of the GIFMM Support Plan for the implementation of the Temporary Protection Status for Venezuelans, UNHCR continues to carry out its Action Plan in Support of the Implementation of the Temporary Protection Status, an extraordinary initiative complementary to the international protection comprised of 3 stages: a) online pre-registration; b) individual in-person biometric registration; and c) documentation (Temporary Protection Permit) with some of the key advances outlined below.

POPULATION TRENDS

- According to UNHCR monitoring, as of 31 July, 39,958 people, or 13,270 families, have been uprooted since the start of 2021 by 81 large-group displacement events. This represents an increase of 142% compared to the same period in 2020. In addition, more than 39,022 people, or 10,066 families, have been confined in Chocó, Nariño, Antioquia, Cauca, Valle del Cauca, Risaralda and Putumayo.
- In Arauca, the local Ombudsperson's office reports an estimated 29,250 people having entered Colombia via informal crossing points of whom 23,220 returned to Venezuela during the first weeks of August (net entry of 6,030 people). In Arauca and Saravena an estimated 9,649 entries and 9,407 exits were reported for the month of August (net entry of 242 people).
- In La Guajira, the number of irregular entries vary on a weekly basis between 300 and up to 1,500 per day depending on the COVID-19 7x7 measures applied on the Venezuela side of the border. These movements include those of indigenous Wayyu in search of medicine, food and services with approx. 200 Venezuelans per day (up to 1,000 during COVID-19 flexible weeks) accessing transportation services to destination cities such as Bogotá, Cali and Medellín.
- In Necocli, local authorities report an agglomeration of approx. 18.000 people, mostly of Haitian nationality, that use routes via Colombia to access the USA, with large numbers starting their journey in Chile and Brazil where they have resided for the last few years (e.g. not new arrivals from Haiti) and seeking to reunite with family and community members in the USA. While potential for a small-scale emergency response with support from OCHA is being explored, UN Agencies and NGOs, including UNHCR, are prioritizing strengthening the capacity of national and local institutions.
- In Putumayo and Arauca, humanitarian situations were caused by the heavy rain season with UNGRD reporting 8,442 families, or 20,655 people, affected by floods across 7 municipalities of Arauca. UNHCR delivered more than 1,200 mosquito nets in the department of Arauca.
