

Time to Teach

Understanding teacher attendance and time on task
in primary schools

Liberia

Silvia Peirolo and Ximena Játiva

October 2021

UNICEF OFFICE OF RESEARCH – INNOCENTI

The Office of Research – Innocenti is UNICEF's dedicated research centre. It undertakes research on emerging or current issues in order to inform the strategic direction, policies and programmes of UNICEF and its partners, shape global debates on child rights and development, and inform the global research and policy agenda for all children, and particularly for the most vulnerable.

Office of Research – Innocenti publications are contributions to a global debate on children and may not necessarily reflect UNICEF policies or approaches.

The Office of Research – Innocenti receives financial support from the Government of Italy, while funding for specific projects is also provided by other governments, international institutions and private sources, including UNICEF National Committees.

The findings, interpretations and conclusions expressed in this paper are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of UNICEF.

This paper has been peer reviewed both externally and within UNICEF.

The text has not been edited to official publications standards and UNICEF accepts no responsibility for errors.

Extracts from this publication may be freely reproduced with due acknowledgement. Requests to utilize larger portions or the full publication should be addressed to the Communications Unit at: Florence@unicef.org.

Any part of this publication may be freely reproduced if accompanied by the following citation: S. Peirolo and Játiva X., Time to Teach – Teacher attendance and time on task in primary schools in Liberia, UNICEF Office of Research – Innocenti, Florence, 2021.

Correspondence should be addressed to:

UNICEF Office of Research – Innocenti
Via degli Alfani, 58
50121 Florence, Italy

Tel: (+39) 055 20 330

Fax: (+39) 055 2033 220

florence@unicef.org

www.unicef-irc.org

twitter: @UNICEFINnocenti

facebook.com/UnicefInnocenti

© 2021 United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF)

Cover photo: ©UNICEF/UNI118057

Editorial production: Dali Mwagore, UNICEF Innocenti

Graphic design: Small World Stories

Time to Teach

Understanding teacher attendance and time on task in primary schools
in Liberia

Silvia Peirolo and Ximena Játiva

October 2021

Acknowledgements

This report was produced by the research team at the UNICEF Office of Research – Innocenti. The study was managed by Matt Brossard, coordinated by Despina Karamperidou, and written by Silvia Peirolo and Ximena Játiva. Matilde Rocca, Rachel Yang Zhou and Jerome Adjimot provided research assistance, and Amparo Barrera and Lara Stefanizzi offered invaluable administrative support to the team.

The research team wishes to acknowledge the guidance of Gunilla Olsson (Director, UNICEF – Innocenti) and Priscilla Idele (Deputy Director, UNICEF – Innocenti). The team is also indebted to Cecilia Baldeh, Haleinta Bara Traore and Haritz Goya Lujambio (UNICEF West and Central Africa Regional Office), Nina Toby, Samuel Mawunganidze, and Shailesh Kumar (UNICEF Liberia) for their excellent comments and for facilitating in-country data collection. Invaluable editorial and communications support was provided by Dali Mwangore, Dale Rutstein, Kathleen Sullivan, and Silke Rechenbach (all UNICEF Office of Research – Innocenti).

The research team is deeply indebted to the 396 study participants (teachers, head teachers, students, community representatives, national officials and subnational education officers), who generously shared their time, experience, and materials for the purposes of this project.

Contents

Acknowledgements	4
Abbreviations	8
Executive summary	9
Key findings	9
How frequently are teachers absent?	9
What are the main factors associated with teacher absenteeism?	10
What are the potential recommendations for policymaking?	11
Section 1: Introduction	12
1.1 Context and study rationale	12
1.2 Impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Liberian education system	13
1.3 Research objectives	14
1.4 Data and methods	14
1.5 Report organization	15
Section 2: Key findings	16
2.1 Frequency of teacher absenteeism	16
2.2 Primary reasons for teacher absenteeism	17
2.3 Factors associated with teacher absenteeism: A systems approach	19
2.3.1 National-level factors	19
2.3.1.1 Teacher training	19
2.3.1.2 National-level monitoring and absence reporting measures	22
2.3.1.3 Teacher salaries and allowances	22
2.3.2 Subnational-level factors	24
2.3.2.1 Monitoring and subnational actors' engagement	24
2.3.2.2 Subnational engagement challenges	26
2.3.3 Community-level factors	27
2.3.3.1 Community infrastructure	27
2.3.3.2 Community engagement	28
2.3.4 School-level factors	30
2.3.4.1 Role of the head teacher	30
2.3.4.2 School infrastructure and availability of teaching and learning materials	32
2.3.4.3 Workload	33
2.3.5 Teacher-level factors	34
2.3.5.1 Health	34
2.3.5.2 Family and community problems	34
Section 3: Recommendations	35

References 37

Annexes

Annex 1. Definition and exploratory framework	41
Annex 2. Study limitations	42
Annex 4. Training qualification requirements	43
Annex 5. National-level structures	44
Annex 6. Absenteeism and selected teacher characteristics	46

List of tables

Table 1: Number of study participants by level of analysis and data collection method	15
Table 2: Description of training qualification	42
Table 3: Absenteeism and selected teacher characteristics	46

List of figures

Figure 1: Frequency of teacher absenteeism	16
Figure 2: Top five reasons for school absenteeism	17
Figure 3: Top five reasons for lateness	18
Figure 4: Top five reasons for classroom absence	18
Figure 5: Top five reasons for reduced teaching time	19
Figure 6: Level of training of surveyed teachers	19
Figure 7: Teachers' perceptions of teaching competence and training opportunities	21
Figure 8: Teachers' perceptions of remuneration and delivery of pay	23
Figure 9: Teachers' perception of subnational monitoring actors	26
Figure 10: Teachers' perceptions of parent involvement in school affairs	29
Figure 11: Teachers' opinions on the role of the head teacher	31
Figure 12: Teachers' opinions on teaching and learning materials	33
Figure 13: The TTT explanatory model	41
Figure 14: Ministry of Education organogram, 2016	45

Abbreviations

CEO	Country education officer
DEO	District education officer
MOE	Ministry of Education
PTA	Parents–Teachers Association
RTTI	Rural Teacher Training Institutes
TLM	Teaching and learning materials
TTT	Time to Teach

预览已结束，完整报告链接和二维码如下：

https://www.yunbaogao.cn/report/index/report?reportId=5_5871

