ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This report is the outcome of a review commissioned by the United Nations World Food Programme (WFP) and conceptualized and conducted by a team from the SMERU Research Institute.

The team is grateful to experts and practitioners in key government agencies and non-governmental organizations that have provided invaluable information and data for this study. In particular, we would like to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude to the participants of the focus group discussions that were conducted in various stages of the study in 2019. At the national level, the team is immensely indebted to the Coordinating Ministry for Economic Affairs; Coordinating Ministry for Human Development and Cultural Affairs; the Meteorological, Climatological and Geophysical Agency (BMKG); Ministry of Agriculture; Ministry of Education; Ministry of Finance; Ministry of Health; Ministry of Social Affairs; National Disaster Management Agency (BNPB); Ministry of National Development Planning/National Development Planning Agency (BAPPENAS); Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Secretariat; Secretariat of the Vice President of the Republic of Indonesia; the National Team for the Acceleration of Poverty Reduction (TNP2K) and the National Team for the Acceleration of Stunting Prevention (TP2AK) in the Vice President's office for their inputs to the initial design of the study. Our thanks also go to the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Indonesia, Humanitarian Forum Indonesia, and Indonesia International Institute for Life-Sciences (i3L) for their useful information about the current condition of food security and nutrition in the country.

We also would like to express our gratitude to Bustanul Arifin, Professor of Agricultural Economics of Lampung University; Prasinta Dewi, Deputy for Logistics and Equipment of the National Agency for Disaster Management; Dobby Izwardy, Head of the National Institute of Health Research and Development of the Ministry of Health; Rachmat Koesnadi, Director of Social Protection for Natural Disaster Victims of the Ministry of Social Affairs; and Vivi Yulaswati, Expert Staff for Social Affairs and Poverty Reduction of the Ministry of National Development Planning/National Development Planning Agency (BAPPENAS); Dodo Gunawan, Head of Climate Change Information Center of the Meteorological, BMKG; Iing Mursalin, Arip Muttaqin and Lucy Widasari of the National Team for the Acceleration of Stunting Prevention (TP2AK) at the Vice President's Office; Dhian Probhoyekti, Director of Public Health Nutrition of the Ministry of Health; and Rachmi Widiarini, Head of Availability of Food of the Food Security Agency of the Ministry of Agriculture for their help during different stages of the study.

The team is also thankful for the contributions received from experts and practitioners in key government agencies and institutions in East Java and East Nusa Tenggara Provinces during focus group discussions and interviews conducted in those two provinces. In East Java, we are thankful to the Agricultural Office, Animal Husbandry Office, Education Office, Health Office and Regional Development Planning Office (BAPPEDA) of East Java Province. We are also grateful to the BPS Office of East Java, BMKG Office of East Java, Faculty of Public Health of the University of Airlangga, and Regional Agency for Disaster Management (BPBD) of East Java Province.

In East Nusa Tenggara, the team is indebted to the Agricultural Office, Education and Cultural Office, Economic and Development Assistance Office, Health Office, Office of Fishery and Maritime Affairs, Planning, Development, Research and Regional Development (Bappelitbangda), and Social Office of East Nusa Tenggara Province. We are also grateful to the BMKG East Nusa Tenggara, BPS East Nusa Tenggara, Faculty of Public Health of Nusa Cendana University, and the WFP East Nusa Tenggara Office in Kupang. Our thanks also go to the Agricultural Office and Health Office of Kupang District for their participation in the focus group discussion in the province.

We would also like to express our gratitude to WFP for their constructive comments on earlier drafts of the document, and to Elan Satriawan, Chief of Policy Team of TNP2K and Associate Professor of Economics, the Department of Economics of Universitas Gadjah Mada for his peer review.

Finally, we are also grateful to Sudarno Sumarto, Ridho Al Izzati, and Nina Toyamah of the SMERU Research Institute for the help and support provided throughout the study.
