This document is a product of the Community and Provider driven Social Accountability Intervention (CaPSAI) Project, which is a study involving multiple partners and countries, with both researchers and implementation teams in Ghana and the United Republic of Tanzania. The CaPSAI Project was overseen by the United Nations Development Programme/United Nations Population Fund/United Nations Children's Fund/World Health Organization/World Bank (UNDP/UNFPA/UNICEF/WHO/World Bank) Special Programme of Research, Development and Research Training in Human Reproduction in the Department of Sexual and Reproductive Health and Research of WHO headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. This document should be considered a product based on the experience of the CaPSAI.

The development and review of the document were led by Victoria Boydell, an independent consultant and the technical lead of the CaPSAI implementation teams, who was assisted by Mary Awelana Addah and Osei-Bonsu Gyamfi of the Ghana Integrity Initiative in Ghana and Alice Monyo, Happy Myovela and Joshua Nkila of Sikika in the United Republic of Tanzania. Petrus S. Steyn, James Kiarie and Joanna Cordero from WHO provided additional input and feedback throughout the development process.

Heather McMullen, an independent consultant, led the development of the study intervention manual and provided support to the CaPSAI implementation teams, together with Vernon Mochache Oyaro, a consultant. The members of the CaPSAI Project research team, namely Dela Nai and Kamil Fuseini from the Population Council, Ghana and Donat Shamba and Sigilbert Mrema from the Ifakara Health Institute, United Republic of Tanzania, also provided valuable feedback regarding the document. Support and feedback were also provided by Roseline Doe and Edwin Swai, from the WHO country offices in Ghana and the United Republic of Tanzania, respectively.
