The Mental Health Atlas is a project of the World Health Organization (WHO). The overall vision and conceptualization of the project is provided by Dévora Kestel. The Mental Health Atlas 2020 is the latest in a series of publications that first appeared in 2001, with subsequent updates published in 2005, 2011, 2014 and 2017. This edition of the Mental Health Atlas is supervised and coordinated by Tarun Dua and Fahmy Hanna.

In WHO Member States, key project collaborators were the mental health focal points in ministries of health, who provided information and responses to the Atlas survey questionnaire. A full list of collaborators is provided as Appendix A of this report.

PREFACE

I am pleased to present the the Mental Health Atlas 2020. Two decades ago, in 2000, the World Health Organization launched Project Atlas to address a gap in mental health information. The objectives of this project included the collection, compilation and dissemination of relevant information about mental health resources across all countries. The first set of publications from the project were Atlas: Mental Health Resources in the World, 2001 and Atlas: Country Profiles on Mental Health Resources in the World, 2001. Several updates have been published subsequently. The WHO Mental Health Atlas has become the best-known and most comprehensive resource for information on mental health resources globally.

The 2020 version of the Mental Health Atlas tracks progress in implementing WHO's Comprehensive Mental Health Action Plan 2013–2030. The 2014 edition of the Mental Health Atlas provided baseline values or the Action Plan's targets for 2013, while the 2017 version provided interim values for its targets for 2016. During the Seventy-fourth World Health Assembly in May 2021, delegates endorsed the Comprehensive Mental Health Action Plan 2013–2030, including the plan's updated implementation options and indicators and targets. This 2020 edition is based on 2019 data and enables the monitoring of progress made towards meeting these targets by 2020. Specifically, the Mental Health Atlas 2020 provides baseline values for the agreed and updated indicators and targets of the newly extended Comprehensive Mental Health Action Plan 2013–2030; further editions of the Atlas will enable the monitoring of progress towards meeting these targets by 2030. The WHO Mental Health Atlas team is grateful to all Member States who submitted their data for the 2020 edition of the Atlas during the challenging times of the COVID-19 pandemic.

We see the Mental Health Atlas as an ongoing activity of WHO, one where more accurate information will become available as the concepts and definitions of resources become more refined and data sources become more organized and reliable. Overall, we hope that the Mental Health Atlas 2020 will assist health planners and policy-makers within countries and regions to identify areas that need urgent attention.
