

Communication and social mobilization in yellow fever mass vaccination campaigns

10 points from field experience

THE YELLOW FEVER INITIATIVE

World Health Organization

Communication and social mobilization in yellow fever mass vaccination campaigns

10 points from field experience

© World Health Organization, 2015

All rights reserved.

The designations employed and the presentation of the material in this publication do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the World Health Organization concerning the legal status of any country, territory, city or area or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries. Dotted lines on maps represent approximate border lines for which there may not yet be full agreement.

The mention of specific companies or of certain manufacturers' products does not imply that they are endorsed or recommended by the World Health Organization in preference to others of a similar nature that are not mentioned. Errors and omissions excepted, the names of proprietary products are distinguished by initial capital letters.

All reasonable precautions have been taken by the World Health Organization to verify the information contained in this publication. However, the published material is being distributed without warranty of any kind, either express or implied. The responsibility for the interpretation and use of the material lies with the reader. In no event shall the World Health Organization be liable for damages arising from its use.

Editorial work by Biotext Pty Ltd, Australia

Layout and design by AcidSolutions

Printed by the WHO Document Production Services, Geneva, Switzerland

Contents

Acknowledgements	v
Abbreviations and acronyms	vii
Introduction	1
1. Building small-scale activities	3
2. Planning advocacy, communication and social mobilization activities	5
3. Identifying the district communications focal point	7
4. Defining the main messages and the specific messages	9
5. Training mobilizers in social mobilization	11
6. Developing a local assessment and a local communications action plan	15
7. Getting the right media mix	17
8. Using banners, posters and radio	21
9. Working with networks	23
10. Monitoring and evaluating the social mobilization campaign	25
Annex 1 Example of an action plan at the local level	27
Annex 2 Example of radio transcript from Cote d'Ivoire	28
Annex 3 Specific messages for yellow fever	29
Annex 4 Sample form to monitor social mobilization	31

Acknowledgements

We would like to thank the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunization for their financial support, as well as the yellow fever experts who had contributed to preparing, drafting and revising this document. In particular Mr Max Tello, the main author and contributor to this publication.

The production of this document was coordinated by Sergio Yactayo and Véronique Millot, with the collaboration of Edward Hoekstra and Maya Vandeventer, from UNICEF-PD, and World Health Organization (WHO) Country Office members and all of the social mobilizations teams from the ministries of health in Côte d'Ivoire, Ghana, Sierra Leone and Liberia.

In addition, thanks to our colleague John Campion, WHO headquarters, for the support and technical inputs.

Pandemic and epidemic diseases publications are available online at www.who.int/csr/resources/publications.

预览已结束，完整报告链接和二维码如下：

https://www.yunbaogao.cn/report/index/report?reportId=5_28509

